General Comment

I am dead set against the government limiting my ability to generate retirement income and reduce my portfolio risk by using options in my IRA account. This appears to be another attempt by government to limit my freedoms and reduce my ability to get ahead in the world. The rash of new government regulations over the last six years has become oppressive to the American people. It's a farce that you could even pretend that limiting our investment choices is in the interest of Americans. If this rule is approved, it will become almost impossible for many Americans to have a decent retirement future.
